Wave Int'l is a curatorial project directed by Brian Khek and Jasmine Lee.

We started this project a year ago as a platform for an international community of artists, writers and thinkers to collaborate on discourses concerning the topography of visual production. Each collaborative effort results in an Issue, which is formally one exhibition and one publication that exhibits in a new city each Issue. In our first issue, we discussed the iconography of the "office", and the production of similar phenomenological image objects in culture. Issue 02 aims to progress those ideas, moving our attention to the projection of virtual information through the frames of digital output, which mediate space between experiences.

Documentation of the exhibitions and editions of the publications are available online. <http://waveintl.info>
